Treasury asst Commr, Vice President under sec 23 cl(b). There is however no objection to the appointment of a non-official Vice President being made by Govt, under cl (a) & to Govt directing that he be elected by the Ind Council. cl (c) & Mr Councils at the Hd Quarters consist of 6 elected Councillors & 12 nominated Councillors of whom 5 are ex-officio. The Treasury asst Commr who succeeds the ex-officio Vice President will continue to be only an ex-officio Councillor like the Executive Engineer, the Dt Sanitary officer and the Amildar, & the present recommendation is sanctioned.

9) the principle of starting with nonoffl Vice Presidents may be recognized wherever the circumstances of the Municipality and the relations existing between the residents therein is admitted & a ~~[illegible]~~ qualified non offl is available to discharge the functions of the Vice President. If when the application was be cancelled by the appointment of a retired officer of the Govt.

12. There are no reasons assigned for an apprehension that the Council will not choose the best candidate for the place if the selection is left to it Should, the Control that the Deputy Comm^r President has over the Vice-President ought to afford much assurance against things going wrong

13 on the other hand, the circumstances specified by the President in his letter are such as to warrant the election of a Vice-President by the Council itself. For there is (1) cordiality between the official & the non-official members, (2) the Lieutenant-General system takes deep interest in municipal affairs & (3) the schemes of town improvement on hand do require more co-operation of the non-officials

14 If the retired officers appointed have proved themselves most deserving, the Council will in all probability go beyond that field for electing a Vice President

15. Besides the Control of the President referred to above, there exist the following safeguards against the misconduct, neglect of duty by or incapacity of an elected non-official Vice President

(1) Under sec 23 cl 1, the Govt have the discretion of abolishing the office itself whenever reconstitution of the Council falls due.

(iii) Under sec 23 the Govt may order a different arrangement when the period for which he was elected or nominated Councillor Expires.

(iv) At any Stage he may be removed by the Govt under cl 6 sec 23

Thus, there appears to be no reasonable ground for adopting too cautious a measure or proceeding too slowly in the path of local self-government at least with respect to the Junkur Council

16 If a retired officer should be absolutely in the first instance it is better to do so by means of having him elected through the Council. If any such officer now on the Council commands sufficient influence and regard, it will not be difficult to do so

17 But in any case the Govt has to be persuaded that such a course is more expedient as the success of the experiment will depend mostly upon the attitude

18 It may perhaps be argued that the other Municipal Councils may demand the same privilege if one election is approved of & that it may be inexpedient to refuse the claim But the Govt may explain clearly the favourable conditions under which such a privilege is given to the Junkur Municipal Council so that no other Council may entertain any reasonable hopes of-

23 If the a non-official Vice-President is elected by the Council for the town it will have to be decided whether he shall be nominated by first or Electors of the Board their being provision for either course in the Mun.l Reg

24. The election of the Chairman has no doubt many arguments in its favour as pointed out by the Deputation but nevertheless there is an element of uncertainty in it. as it is just possible that many of some one of the members who do not command the confidence & respect of their first and two further ballots might succeed in getting himself Elected in which case the Election cannot be set aside by first as the Mun.l Regulation does not contain any provision for the Election being approved & confirmed by first 52 I do not attach much importance to the distinction betn offl & non-offl in this connection. Both will have to work under the rules & Regns & the non-offl will very soon have to officialise himself if he wishes to get on with the work.

53 From the D C's last Demi-official letter I see that the present nomination comes pretty much to the same thing as election. I think that at the end of this term, we may well allow the Vice President to be elected

Submitted to His Highness

The Deputy Commissioner of Tumkur having recommended the appointment of a non-official Vice-President for the Tumkur Town Municipal Council on which there were capable Municipal Councillors possessing wide experience and knowledge of local and administrative affairs, it is proposed to appoint Mr. C. Sheshadriengar, retired Assistant Commissioner, as the Vice-President of that Council, with effect from the 1st July 1913. He will hold office as such till the expiry of the term of the present re-constitution of the Tumkur Municipal Council.

2. The Councillors have unanimously recommended Mr. Sheshadriengar, retired Assistant Commissioner and Councillor, as the person most fit for the place and the Deputy Commissioner agrees that no better selection can be made.

3. A draft order sanctioning the appointment and a Notification are submitted for approval.

4. The expediency of having an elected Vice-President has also been discussed and considered in the notes, and this question will be taken up after the expiry of the present term.

works under the Regulation of 1906 and the Council consists of five Official members, Six elected non-Official members and seven nominated non-Official members. The average Municipal revenue is Rs 20,000 and the expenditure Rs 17000 The town is a compact one and the Municipal Administration is fairly simple and presents no complications or difficulties Official and non-Official members work together on cordial terms and several of the non-Official members take great interest in Municipal work Some schemes of town improvement have recently been taken up and proposals are being matured It would be an advantage if these schemes are carried out with complete non-Official Co-operation.

3 Trincomalee has an advantage in that several retired Officers of the rank of Assistant Commissioners and Auxiliaries have settled down here after retirement and many of them take a lively interest in public matters Among these may be mentioned Mr. Seshadriengar, Mr. Hema Hanumantiah, Mr C.D Ramaswamiah and Mr C Narayana Rao, all retired Assistant Commissioners, of whom the first two have been Municipal members for several years, and the first and third take an important part in the successful management of the local Co-operative Society They are all capable of a fair amount of physical activity and their past Official experience and knowledge of local affairs will be of much use if they are more closely associated with the Municipal Administration than as mere members of the Council

4 In these favourable conditions I have every confidence that if a non Official Vice President is selected from among these retired Officers the Municipal Administration will be carried on with efficiency and that later on it may be possible to find suitable Vice Presidents even outside the ranks of retired Officers and the Office may be filled by election instead of by nomination

5 If the proposal meets with the approval of Government I shall be happy to submit a recommendation in regard to the person to be selected to hold the Office

On the contrary, the conditions clearly do and forcibly described therein seem to warrant it as a provisory Experiment. And in view of the powers vested in the Govt under Sec 23 Cl and 6, and for the exclusive control that the Provincial has over the Gaol, there is so little reason for any reasonable apprehension about the smooth working of the suggested measure. In these circumstances I am to request you to communicate your views in this matter as early as possible to enable the Govt of India

Deputy Commissioner's Office,
Tumkur District
Dated 27th February 1913

I am in receipt of your letter No.6534 dated 20th February 1913 asking my opinion whether the Tumkur Municipal Council may not be allowed to elect its Vice President.

I have considered the suggestion carefully but I am reluctantly obliged to adhere to the recommendation that the Vice President may be appointed by Government for the present and that the concession of election may be left over for consideration some time later.

Even though Tumkur is rather favourably situated as regards non-official material still for some time to come we must look to the class of retired officers for furnishing Vice Presidents. There are some practising Lawyers on the Council but they are not likely to be able to spare the time necessary to discharge the duties of Vice President. The merchants and others on the Council have no knowledge of English and would not be able to discharge the duties of the office. Even among retired officers only two are at present members of the Council and the others are outside the Council. If the choice of a Vice President is left to be made by election it is not possible to ensure that some of the members who may not be quite fit to discharge the duties of the office will not stand for election or will not be able to secure votes in their favour A certain amount of canvassing will be inevitable and we cannot be sure that everybody who is not quite fit will be so selfless as not to aspire for the honour of being the Vice President. This danger will exist particularly at present when the office is first thrown open to non-officials and the glamour of it may appeal to people with strength. Of course there are checks and safeguards but when making a departure and trying an experiment it is best to make the conditions as simple as possible for success and not to exercise the powers meant for use in emergencies.

After some time when people see how the non-official Vice Presidents work and how there is some responsibility and duty besides the glamour of office, both candidates and voters will be in a position to select wisely.

I would therefore suggest that the appointment of a non official Vice President may be made by Government until some
